

THE TRIAL FILES

17/01/2024 KENSINGTON

Race 1 - 2:20PM GRAINSHAKER AUSTRALIAN VODKA PLATE (1000 METRES)

On a Soft 6 at Kensington and some showers expected as we get later into the program. Kenso has been leaderish of late which adds intrigue to this meeting and Race 1 in particular.

Speed looks to come from the two debutants and two favourites #1 CALL ME GORGEOUS and #2 LUNA FIELD. Both have trialled well. Have their trials justified their place in the market, that's the question? They both get map favours but both are coming into this on the back of two recent trial wins but the do look too short. Pfeiffer and Baker horses often trial well but have improvement to come when they step out on debut. Pfeiffer has a better record second up than first up and Baker has had a few nice triallers that have been disappointing lately on raceday. #2 LUNA FIELD did beat Sky Artist who won well at Nowra on debut and #1 CALL ME GORGEOUS looked nice at his first trial when he beat #7 BALLETT D'ESPRIT. #7 BALLETT D'ESPRIT has since ran a very good/unlucky third. Has a fitness edge and can be in the finish.

Then we have #5 AMOREAUX who we were very keen on first-up on the back of an impressive trial. He was smashed in betting, took over a long way from home, traded $1.02 in the run and somehow got beaten. He'll take huge benefit from that run and be a lot fitter today but he is map negative and dropping back to 1000m. Wary.

SELECTION:

No bet currently and if betting, will be doing so late. #1 CALL ME GORGEOUS and #2 LUNA FIELD do look too short at $3. Parade important. #7 BALLETT D'ESPRIT and #5 AMOREAUX have the ability to be in the finish.

Web: www.thetrialfiles.com.au

@the_trialfiles

@thetrialfiles

Disclaimer: The Trial Files is published for information purposes only. All care is taken in compiling information, however The Trial Files is not liable for errors.
Gamble Responsibly: 1800 858 858

